Access
Visitors are encouraged to enjoy the Reserve; however, human use is restricted to those activities that are compatible with conserving the biological diversity of the area. Please respect all rules that are intended to minimize human impact and promote public safety.

Interpretive programs are available upon request for schools and other groups by calling 951-677-6951.

Safety
Mountain lions travel through the Reserve. Please keep children close at all times, and runners are advised to run with a partner.

Three rattlesnake species reside on the Reserve — Southern Pacific, Red-Diamond, and Speckled. Watch where you step, do not put your hands where you cannot see, and never pick up any snake!

Poison oak is a common plant of the Plateau. Leaves and stems are a skin irritant. Stay on trails and avoid this plant. Remember, “Leaves of three, let it be.”

On multi-use trails hikers must give right-of-way to bikes and horses. Bikers must yield to all horses.
